Hills lends an ear for a cause

S PICKS and Specks host and international comedian Adam Hills met his buddy Keith Potger, one of the Seekers' founding members, yesterday.

Adam, near left with Keith, is well connected.

Having met many stars on the music quiz show, he's friendly with all of them. The smiley host was in town as guest of the Support Act monthly luncheon at which Keith was speaker.

Support Act is Australia's Music Industry Benevolent Fund, which Keith - who is Support Act chairman in Victoria - says is "vital" for the industry. Life isn't all glamour for musicians and some are doing it tough, he says. And on Tuesday night, Adam was MC for the first annual John Vincent Memorial Big Quiz.

"(The late Vinnie's) energy infused everyone," Adam says.

"He was a good man with the love of being silly. I'll come back every year."

While Adam was looking swish yesterday, he jokes people should start a fund for his Spicks and Specks colleague, Myf Warhurst.

As you'll recall, Myf's Logies dress was banished to the worst-dress list and she burned it as a result.

"It's harder for Myf because she's not a pretend person. She's genuine," he says.

As for talk about his fiancée, Ali McGregor, Adam is keeping mum.

"Wedding plans are progressing nicely," he says.

Meanwhile, it's no secret the ABC music show is soon airing its '50s-to-'80s special, and dapper Adam dresses up for every decade.

While Adam is jetting to the UK - where he is known as a comedian - on Monday for the last half of the year, you can catch Keith performing at the Trak Cinema on Greenhill Rd tomorrow at 2.30pm and 7pm.

He'll be performing "some Seeker songs, some from my solo CDs and a few country songs".
